

I am against the proposed weakening of ownership controls of Broadcast Media. Current corporate control already compromises the truth and my level of trust at what is reported is at an all time low. Should the proposal be approved, I will be forced to obtain a greater level of information from foreign news sources--as there will be no reason to trust what I'm being told. Far too often today, America's corporate media appears to be a branch of the US government. Dissent is down played and the administration's position is portrayed as if it was the truth. After reading foreign sources, I'm convinced that Americans are not permitted to know what our government is doing. This proposal only increases my distrust of both the government and the media.
